Arrival, Waiting, & Post-Transaction Spaces at EPSC that do more.

ARRIVAL CHECK IN THE WAIT APPROACH COUNTER BIOMETRICS DOCUMENT CHECK CONFIRM INFORMATION PHOTO TAKING MOBILE APP SET UP CARD APPROVAL LEAVE EPSC

This bucket of ideas was sparked by how both Changi and the Apple Store turned stagnant waiting / queue areas into immersive,porous, and desirable destinations

2 things we observed during desktop research:

Changi airport

Changi made Jewel optional but desirable, and gave users time back on transactions - so that users could enjoy it WITHOUT the tradeoff of needing to spend more time at the airport

Apple Store

`Fast Track for Item Collection (QR + Rough Timeslot):`

`Browsing / Meandering (Unscripted, user's own pace):`

`Genius Bar for specific programming (Appointment or Class Based): 1-1 or 1-many`

The Apple Store has 3 (or more) distinct tracks that can match the user's speed, but still allow for delightful overlaps, such as product browsing while waiting for order collection.

Relevant verbatims from our interviews:

Ariel:
It could be nice if theres a space for people come to explore if they want. for me since I have been here before it wont be very interesting to me but I can see how it would be fun for kids or new comers.

David:
In general people don't know how big of Singapore is as a bridge to the rest of Asia, that it's a technology hub. i think that some level of advertising to bring this awareness up would be useful.

Chayan:
Just have a few drawing sheets and colours or books to engage a toddler or young child. No need anything too fancy to engage them.
